

In April 2024, the Sikh Coalition published Where Are You Really From (WAYRF): A National Sikh School Climate Report. Based on surveys collected from ~2,000 Sikh students in 30 states across the country, WAYRF offers new insight into bullying and school climate.

78%

of Sikh students reported experiencing at least one incident that meets the definition of bullying, yet only 49% self-reported being bullied.

63%

of Sikh students said that bullying comments were "sometimes" made in the presence of teachers and school staff, but that those adults "almost never" or "never" intervened.

11%

of Sikh students reported being bullied by teachers or school staff.

74%

of Sikh students said they knew how to report bullying at school, but 46% said they "never" or "almost never" reported a bullying incident.

50%

of Sikh students reported that educational materials, holiday policies, and school or sports uniform policies, are not at all inclusive of Sikhi.

82%

of Sikh students reported experiencing at least one microaggression, but the majority did not identify this behavior as bullying.

WAYRF includes recommendations for elected officials, education agencies, and teachers. For this report to make Sikh students safer in schools, we need your help.
